

Fort Bend's Girly Girl Rooms

From pretty and pink to wild and wonderful

Written by Katrina Katsarelis

Whether your daughter is 16 months or 16 years, the days of Pepto-Bismol pink walls and white lace bedding are gone. Today's Fort Bend girls' rooms come in every color of the rainbow and every style imaginable.

Update family heirloom pieces with soft pastels and modern furnishings

So much more than a place to sleep, a girl's room is also a place to play, create, and dream to her heart's content. When it comes to decorating, the sky is the limit on imagination, creativity, and individuality. The more the room is customized to reflect your daughter's personality and style, the bigger of a hit it will be. Whether you're starting with a blank canvas of plain white walls or revamping an already designed boudoir, the idea is to find a space that can grow with her. Try to untap her uniqueness and sense of style, and then use it to create a functional, customized space to call her own.

Lighting and Curve Appeal

The use of recessed lights and curved architecture gives this radiant room immediate wow factor. Funky accessories and the blending of bold and pastel colors help to make this room girlyrific.

Fun with Fabrics

Not only do girls grow and change, their decorating preferences do, too. That's why wallpaper is not always a smart choice. Choose a color-coordinated fabric to hang behind the bed and pull extra fabrics for other accents and table fabrics.

Walls of Wonder

To add flair to a plain wall without painting, purchase a few removable decals. These come in a variety of patterns and styles and are available at many home improvement stores, craft stores, and online. Target carries several styles, as well, including a removable chalk board decal.

Breakfast at Tiffany's

Beautiful Tiffany blue walls encompass the black and white damask themed bedroom of this teen. Crystal and glass accents add to the sophisticated appeal of this big girl's space.

Pink Reformation

To help transform a little girl's room into a big girl's room, try adding black or brown as an accent color. Both colors go very well with pink and give the space an instant grown-up flavor.

Girls Room Décor QUICK TIPS

Allow your daughter to express her own sense of style.

Start with an inspiration piece.

Pull colors, elements, or shapes from your daughter's favorite piece of art, lamp, rug, or blanket.

Think outside the box.

Make a canopy out of a sheer curtain, put a funky rug on the wall instead of the floor, frame a piece of handmade art, or drape a sheet on the wall for a splash of coordinating color. Get creative together and stretch your imagination.

Functionality first.

Cover all the bases as you're decorating; considering her sleep space, play space, work space, and storage space.

Beware of fads and trends.

Will that hand-painted Justin Bieber mural still appeal to her when she's in high school? Probably not. Encourage temporary décor for things she will outgrow quickly.

Make it her own.

Let your daughter choose colors and accessories that fit her style, even if it's not your preference.

Have fun together.

Include her in the decorating, shopping, painting, and creative projects. She will learn a lot about decorating and about herself during the process.

Cute N' Curvy

This curvy, but funky furniture was painted with colorful polka dots making this girls' room unlike any other.

Sherbet at Sunset

Another different take on the traditional pink girls' room is to blend corals, pinks, and oranges into a sherbet style room that will grow along with the girl.

Checkerboard Elegance

The pink and gold square elements in the drapes, wall décor, and headboard add sophistication to a growing girls' boudoir. Add contrast to the checkerboard theme by tossing in an occasional round element like a footstool or accent pillow.
